AGI General Contracting Receives 2009 Constructech Vision Awards
Computer Guidance And Its Client Recognized For Their Achievements

Scottsdale, Arizona – August 27, 2009 – Computer Guidance Corporation, the leading developer of financial and project management software solutions for architecture, engineering and construction companies, today announced that its client, AGI General Contracting, was recognized as a bronze level recipient at the 2009 Annual Constructech Vision Awards at the Crowne Plaza Chicago O’Hare hotel.

AGI General Contracting is a full-service general contractor specializing in commercial construction for the area’s leading businesses, from institutional settings to structurally-complex construction in Orange County, California. Since 1978, AGI GC has created an exceptional reputation in delivering quality workmanship, and was recognized last week for the innovative and integrated application of its financial and project management technology from Computer Guidance Corporation.

“In today’s market, construction companies must face new challenges head on, and bring customers the most affordable, quality product they can. This goal can be achieved with the use of the right technology solutions,” said Mike Carrozzo, chief editor, Constructech. “The companies named as Vision Award winners recognize this necessity, and have become more successful as a result of implementing technology.”

“We are pleased to be recognized as a Vision Award winner for our continued efforts in driving greater operational efficiencies through technology advancements for our clients” said Jackie Buck, VP of Finance and Administration, AGI General Contracting.

AGI General Contracting leverages the entire spectrum of Computer Guidance construction management software, including financial accounting, project management, document imaging and electronic workflow; and it continues to implement breakthrough technologies as they become available.
