

JDM Technology Group Acquires Integrity Software Systems to Expand Its Footprint in the United Kingdom Continuing on Its Buy and Build Strategy

Specialized Enterprise Business Management Software for Construction and Complex Retail Businesses

Vancouver, B.C. – January 30, 2015 – JDM Technology Group, a group of global enterprise software provider companies for the architecture, engineering, construction and manufacturing industries, today announced that it has completed the acquisition of Integrity Software Systems Ltd.

The acquisition of Integrity Software Systems Ltd. advances JDM Technology Group's mission to provide its global clients with exceptional software and solutions that create meaningful impact on their bottom line. Integrity Software Systems will be the fifth operating company of JDM Technology Group which also includes Computer Guidance Corporation, CSSP, Explorer Software and RedSkyIT.

Integrity Software Systems brings 900 plus customers to JDM Technology Group which bolsters their global position and results in claiming the largest market of enterprise construction software in the United Kingdom. This transaction is the 12th acquisition by JDM Technology Group since its foundation in 1981.

"Buy and Build continues to be our global growth strategy as we acquire leaders in enterprise construction software complementing our current portfolio of superior construction ERP companies," added James D. McFarlane, CEO, JDM Technology Group. "Our acquisitions are focused on top line revenue growth and geographical expansion while ensuring that customers continue to have access to the very best technology to support their growth. Therefore we do not end the life any acquired product but allow our customers to select their enterprise software of choice."

"Business process automation and data-driven business management are the driving forces behind embracing technology in the construction industry. JDM Technology Group acquisitions concentrate on bringing innovative technologies to the construction industry supported by comprehensive customer service programs across six continents and in over 40 countries," added Mr. McFarlane.

"We are excited to have Integrity Systems team and customers join JDM Technology Group. Our customers will be supported by a group of leading organizations that are unparalleled in the industry as they collaborate in redefining the future of construction software here in the United Kingdom and across globe," commented Stewart Holness, CEO at Integrity Software Systems.
