

JDM Technology Group Acquires LEVESYS, Increasing Market Share in Australia

Broadens Construction Enterprise Resource Planning Portfolio Supporting Commercial Contractors Worldwide

Vancouver, B.C. – November 2, 2015 – JDM Technology Group, a group of global enterprise software provider companies for the architecture, engineering, construction and manufacturing industries, today announced that it has completed the acquisition of LEVESYS (www.levesys.com).

Since 1989, LEVESYS has been a premier provider of construction ERP software in Australia, serving a variety of commercial contractors and subcontractors, as well as electrical contractors. JDM Technology Group's acquisition of LEVESYS further secures the company's global leadership position and strengthens its #1 market share ranking in Australia. By adding LEVESYS' advanced software and solutions to its existing portfolio, JDM Technology Group supports tens of thousands of users and thousands of customers on six continents in more than 40 countries.

"Our mission is to bring value to our customers by delivering cutting-edge software and proven ERP solutions backed by exceptional service that helps contractors achieve their goals on a daily basis," said James D. McFarlane, CEO, JDM Technology Group. "We will continue to deliver on this promise through a Buy-and-Build approach by acquiring leaders in enterprise construction software that provide top line revenue growth and geographical expansion for JDM, while ensuring that customers maintain access to their current technology and also benefit from the collaborative results of product development across all our companies."

This transaction is the 13th acquisition by JDM Technology Group since its foundation in 1981 and makes LEVESYS the sixth operating company of JDM Technology Group, which already includes Computer Guidance Corporation, CSSP, Explorer Software, Integrity Software Systems and RedSkyIT. JDM Technology Group will continue to provide and support LEVESYS solutions, reinvesting in the company's products, employees and business development activities for ongoing growth.

"For the past three decades, LEVESYS has been committed to serving our customers with some of the best ERP solutions and services the industry has to offer in Australia," commented Mark Gravolin, CEO at LEVESYS. "Today, I am excited and honored to say that we will continue down that path as an integral part of the JDM Technology Group. As I look toward to my retirement and look back at all of our accomplishments, I am confident that LEVESYS products, customers, employees and legacy will be carried forward proudly."
