Computer Guidance Cements Longstanding Partnership with the Associated General Contractors of America
Supporting the commercial construction industry with advanced technologies, ongoing collaboration, industry advocacy and continued education

Scottsdale, Arizona – February 14, 2017 – Computer Guidance Corporation, the leading developer of ERP solutions for the construction industry, today announced its continued partnership with the Associated General Contractors of America (AGC).

Computer Guidance has been a long-time supporter of the AGC and participates in a variety of AGC programs while supporting the organization's outreach efforts to its members. Computer Guidance has hosted numerous sessions and webinars and has received in return valuable insight into the needs of contractors and ever-changing industry trends.

Stephen E. Sandherr, CEO of the AGC, commented, "We are thankful to Computer Guidance Corporation for continuing to support our mission to provide educational resources, advocacy, industry information and professional development services to our members. Thanks to these partnerships, our member firms have ongoing access to tools and technology solutions to allow them to solve their daily business challenges."

Mike Bihlmeier, President of Computer Guidance, said, "We are proud of this partnership and are committed to its ongoing efforts to build and strengthen the industry with advanced and innovative technology solutions and consultative educational services."
