Computer Guidance Clients Celebrate Successes with eCMS v.4.1 ERP
New and Existing Customers Leverage the Latest Innovative Functionality and Cloud Services

Scottsdale, Arizona – February 23, 2017 – Computer Guidance Corporation, the leading developer of cloud-based construction management software, today announced their clients' ongoing success with the latest software version, eCMS v.4.1 ERP software.

Computer Guidance's eCMS v.4.1 delivers an integrated and intuitive approach for office and remote field employees to collaborate and share real-time accurate information on demand. By recognizing the need for informed decision-making and project-wide collaboration, eCMS v.4.1 addresses the specific challenges that commercial contractors face and delivers new technologies to market.

"We are excited about leveraging the cloud and eCMS v.4.1," said Tom Sutphen, Chief Financial Officer, Joseph A Natoli Construction. "We are providing users increased functionality including Employee Self Service, Project Collaborator and Content Management applications in addition to several enhancements to job costing, payroll and business intelligence."

"We look forward to benefiting from the new functionality that eCMS v.4.1 has to offer, specifically the Content Management application," stated Robert Seibel, Chief Financial Officer, CD Smith Construction. "CD Smith has been a Computer Guidance client since 2005 and we look forward to growing our partnership for years to come."

"We chose CGC's managed hosting services in order to gain productivity, drive efficiencies and reduce expenses," said Martin Schaper, CFO, HA Sack Company. "As a CGC client since 2008, we look forward to the enhanced capabilities offered by the eCMS 4.1 solution. The key drivers of our decision were the intuitive Launchpad, powerful Content Management, integrated Project Collaborator and eCMS' exclusive and all-encompassing data reporting and analytics solutions."

"Our product deliverables continue to focus on data accessibility and integrated workflows," said Ken Kopal, Director of Business Intelligence and Emerging Technologies, Computer Guidance Corporation. "With eCMS v.4.1, we have reached new heights for project-wide cost accounting, reporting, collaboration and content management while our backbone ERP platform remains extremely flexible, scalable, reliable and secure."
