Computer Guidance Welcomes Estimate Software Ltd into JDM Technology Group
JDM Technology Group Announces Continued Expansion with Its Fourth Acquisition in 2017

Scottsdale, Arizona – September 6, 2017 – Computer Guidance Corporation, the leading developer of ERP software solutions for the construction industry, today announced that its parent company, JDM Technology Group, has completed the acquisition of the UK-based Estimate Software Limited, expanding its construction software offerings and growing its global footprint.

Estimate Software has been the leading provider of estimating and takeoff software as well as price libraries for the construction industry in the United Kingdom and around the world. The acquisition strengthens the JDM Technology Group with a broader offering of estimating software solutions to its existing customer base as well as increased construction software offerings to Estimate’s customers. Estimate will join a distinguished group of JDM Technology Group software companies that span six continents and serve more than 100,000 users.

“We welcome the Estimate Software team and customers to the JDM Technology family. This acquisition is yet another testament of JDM Technology Group’s dedication to the future success of our construction clients day-in and day-out across the globe,” said Mike Bihlmeier, President, Computer Guidance Corporation. “Our long-term and combined vision to delivering innovative technology solutions to the construction market continues to grow and we are excited about the future ahead.”
